SIM BOSTON
WHERE TECHNOLOGY LEADERS CONNECT

CIO ROUNDTABLE

LEADERSHIP CAN BE ISOLATING BUT IT DOESN'T HAVE TO BE.

The peer network every CIO relies on.

A private forum where the Boston region's senior technology leaders trade candid advice, pressure-test big decisions, and build relationships that last — four times a year in the room, and every day in between. It's the only room where you aren't being sold to.

Who it's for

Exclusively for CIOs, CTOs, CISOs and the highest-level technology decision-makers. If the buck stops with you, this room was built for you.

Real Relationships

Real relationships with leaders who understand exactly what you're navigating — no vendors, no agenda.

Trusted Advice

Pressure-test major decisions with experienced CIOs and technology leaders who have already faced the same challenge.

Better Outcomes

Bring proven ideas back to your organization

THE ROUNDTABLE NEVER ADJOURNS

Stuck on a vendor call, a board question, or a 2 a.m. incident? Ask the group. Members answer members through a private distribution list — so the collective expertise of the whole room is one email away, all year long.

How it works

meetings a year

One each quarter

Gather with 15–25 of your true peers offsite followed by a private dining event. No dry slide decks or promotions — just structured, candid executive debates on technology strategy, boardroom pressures, AI, and leadership.

THE GROUND RULES

Vegas rules
What's shared in the room stays in the room.

No selling, ever
No selling. No vendors. No pitches or demos.

Candid & judgment-free
A geek-friendly culture where honesty is the point.

It's helped me build a network of trusted technology and business leaders – and grow as a professional by learning from peers and gaining new perspectives.

— David Vidoni, CIO, Pegasystems

A trusted network of CIOs who openly share insights and challenges. The relationships I've built have made me a stronger leader and helped me drive greater impact.

— Brian Blackman, CIO, Mass General Hospital

Don't get left out of the conversation.

The insight you need often arrives right before your next big decision. Make sure you're in the room to hear it.
